The emperor's new clothes

1

One day, a man visits the emperor with some new clothes.

2

'I have some magic clothes. They're very beautiful,' says the man, 'But only clever people can see them!'

3

The man opens his box. The emperor cannot see any clothes, but he nods with a big smile and says, 'They're so beautiful!' So the emperor gives the man a lot of money and puts on the new clothes.

4

The emperor walks down the street. People keep silent. But a child cries out, 'Look! He has nothing on!'

Answer the questions

- 1 What does the man say about the magic clothes?
- 2 Are there any clothes in the box?
- 3 Can people see the emperor's 'new clothes'?
- 4 Who is telling the truth?

The students are giving a report about the Yangtze River.

Alice: The Yangtze River is very, very long. First, it starts high in the mountains in the west of China.

Peter: Next, it runs down the mountains and through the beautiful Three Gorges.

Jill: Then, it meets more water from many other lakes and rivers.

Danny: Finally, it runs into the sea.

Mr Zhang: Does the Yangtze River run through Shanghai?

Alice: Yes. Our Huangpu River flows into the Yangtze River at Wusong Port.

Mr Zhang: That's right!
